Dr. Weber

Dr. Harm A. Weber retired from the presidency on December 31, 1991 after 22 years of service. Many changes have taken place at Judson College while Dr. Weber was president including the doubling of student enrollment, the construction of Herrick Chapel, the Fine Arts bouilding, the Campus Commons, and the Lindner Center;The accredation from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, and The establishment of Christian Ministries and Youth Leadership programs. Above all else, though, Dr. Weber is best known for the relationship he had with the students. For all these reasons and more, we dedicate this yearbook to Dr. Harm Weber.

Children of the Light

As children of God we have given our lives over to Him, never to stand in darkness again. In this yearbook of memories we wanted to remember, above all, the beauty and wonder of our Lord and how we as children cannot live without HIm. He is what we need; He is our comforter, our friend, our father, our brother, our love and our light. He is the One who knows the every desire of our heart and determines the steps we take. He lights our paths, our lives, and our hearts.

Please allow the light within your heart to shine brightly, illuminating the darkened world around you.

May God bless you as always.

Forever friends!

Cotton Patch Gospel

Biff, you don't know these lines any better than I do!

There's no business like show business!

The fall play this year at Judson College was entitled COTTON PATCH GOSPEL. This dramatic musical was directed by Dr. Lee Krahenbuhl. One interesting aspect of this play was that cast members portrayed several different characters. Essentially this story was based on the life of Jesus. Instead of being set in Jerusalem, however, COTTON PATCH GOSPEL took place in the South. The play was both entertaining and moving and was enjoyed by all.

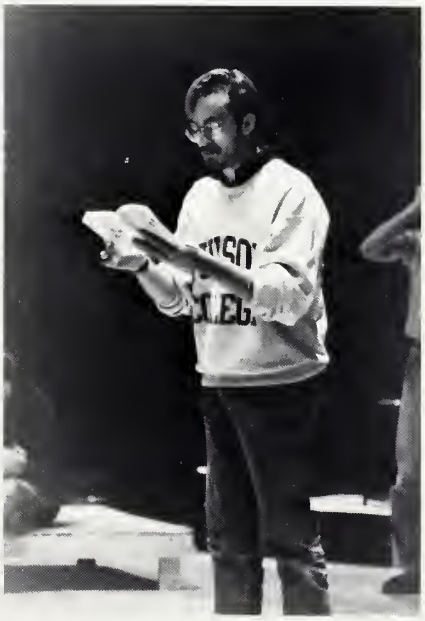

Variety Show

Christmas by Candlelight is an event enjoyed not just by Judson students and families but by community members as well. Following this year's Christmas feast and caroling, guests enjoyed a concert by the Judson choir and the Judson handbells. As always, this event was the perfect start to a holy season.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST

This year's spring play, THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST, by Oscar Wilde, was directed by Heidi Kuntzman and Darren Wooding. This play was a senior project for Heidi and Darren. Judging by the play's success, it looks like they will have a great future in theater!

Sonja Jamsa: education major

Gary gives an impromptu recital.

Senior year. The end is in sight. What a temptation it would be to simply coast through th year. Fortunately Judson has a "protective safety clause." Most seniors are required to d some sort of major project during their last year at Judson. Education majors spend eleve weeks student teaching. Vocal fine arts majors perform in recitals. Theatre fine arts majors a required to take on the responsibility of a major play production. Other major projects includ art shows, research projects, and internships. The amount of work, responsibility, an dedication it takes to successfully complete these projects is unimaginable! But all the effort worthwhile when the diploma is in hand!

Darren and Heidi make an awesome team!

Carla faced her senior year with strong determination!

National Champs

Eagles Soccer

To say that the Judson Soocer Team had an awesome season is putting it mildly. The Eagles are proud owners of their new title: National Division I Champions of the National Christian Collge Athleic Association. The team won the title in a decisive victory over The King's Collge by a score of 7-1! Judson's own "king," Freddie King, led the way, scoring 3 goals. GO EAGLES!

JUDSON CROSS-COUNTRY

1991-1992 witnessed the resurrection of intercollegiate cross country and track at Judson College. With Coach Rick Wilson leading the way the Eagle runners started off somewhat slow but picked up the pace and ended the season with several stand-out performances. Greg Syverson and Matthew Eckberg both won NIIC All-Conference and NAIA All-District honors in cross country and Matthew Eckberg placed seventh in 5,000 meters at the NCCAA outdoor track national meet.

SPIRITUAL ENRICHMENT WEEK

Spiritual Enrichment Week was very different and exciting this year. Instead of asking one person to be the speaker for the week, Judson asked the A.D. Players, a Christian drama group, to come instead. The drama team brought the scriptures to life and touched the hearts of students and faculty in a unique way. Special thanks to Ed Gilbreath, Dr. Lee Krahenbuhl, and the S.E.W. committee for their organization of this very successful week!
